12:30 - 2:30 p.m.

This hands-on program is designed to spark youth interest in nature exploration and habitat conservation through art and science-based activities. Students will be hiking, journaling, bird watching, drawing and designing, building, and playing games. Participants will meet several professional guest presenters. This curriculum does correlate to many national education standards. A parent or guardian must stay; younger siblings are welcome!

Participants will have the option to enter their waterfowl artwork into the Indiana Junior Duck Stamp Contest.

To register or inquire:

Email Leslie Arnold at larnold@lagrangeparks.org or call 260-854-2225.

Registration ends August 28.
